Dear Mr. Marchionne:

In light of your recent comments regarding the possibility of moving Jeep Wrangler production out of Toledo, we write to you out of concern for thousands of workers in Northwest Ohio and ask that you do everything you can to keep the production of one of America's most iconic vehicles at home, in Toledo.

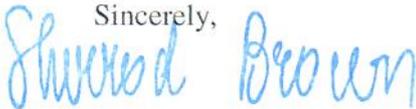

Toledo has a rich and proud history of manufacturing automobiles and sport utility vehicles. The Jeep brand has played a critical role in the city's development and in Chrysler's resurgence since the auto rescue, which we wholeheartedly supported. Not only would relocating Wrangler production be devastating to the Toledo community, it could also have an adverse impact on the company's production. Toledo workers have been building Jeeps for more than 70 years, and can outcompete anyone in the world with their knowledge, skills, and work ethic. Because of their strong collaboration with management and unwavering community support, the Toledo Assembly plant has received recognition as one of North America's most productive assembly plants.

The manner in which recent reports relating to the future of Jeep Wrangler production in Toledo were released has caused great concern to employees of the Jeep facility and related suppliers, the citizens of our community, and the entire region.

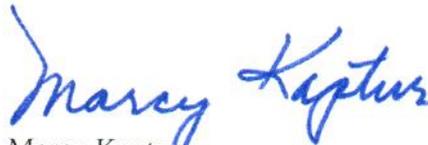

Pursuant to our contacts with Chrysler's government affairs office, we would appreciate an opportunity to speak with you at your earliest convenience about Fiat Chrysler Automobiles' plans for the future of Jeep production and Chrysler's Toledo facility. We stand ready to work with you to grow Chrysler's role in our community.

Time and time again, the Toledo community has risen to the occasion and helped Chrysler produce some of the best vehicles in the world. The community stands behind Chrysler, and is ready to help the company achieve new success with the next generation Wrangler.

Sincerely,

Sherrod Brown
